COLORADO'S OPPORTUNITY

For the [illegible] years past the increase in the consumption of sugar all over the world has been 1,083,000 tons an average increase per year of 361,000 tons. The total consumption during the year 1891 was 6,240,000 tons. For the present year at the average rate of increase the consumption will be 6,601,000 tons provided the supply can reach those figures. The experienced statistician, Mr Licht estimates however that the production of sugar for this year will be 500,000 tons less, of which the German beet crop will furnish 1,300,000 tons and the Cuban cane crop 300,000 tons and unless something is done to prevent it the deficiency will grow larger from year to year.

It is only about thirty years since the production of sugar from beets began to assume very large proportions. Before that time the world depended for its sugar supply upon cane alone. The enormous increase in production brought about by the raising of beet crops for sugar has brought down the price more than fifty per cent, but the consumption has of late years outrun the production and sugar must go up again in price until a very much larger amount is produced.

The cane sugar crop of the world may not quite have reached its maximum but it cannot [illegible] with the demand and already the amount of sugar produced from beets is [illegible] by about 640,000 tons, or [illegible] 23 per cent. There is to be [illegible] beet sugar [illegible] the cultivation of beets [illegible] can be made to produce beets containing from 15 to 20 per cent. of sugar [illegible] the area [illegible] of American matter in the beets of Colorado is only about 10 per cent. Our [illegible] we must make favorable changes in Congress we have the right to [illegible] that only beets shall be allowed to [illegible] of the bounty to be paid. [illegible] why [illegible] of sugar [illegible] in Colorado it should not be [illegible] [illegible] established, and be at [illegible] 10 per [illegible] At 15 per cent. it [illegible] be profitable in [illegible] into [illegible] and [illegible] ally favorable conditions and the [illegible] of price [illegible] produce it is entirely [illegible] ring splendid [illegible] not.

It is not probable that the present duty [illegible] will be long retained. If it is [illegible] however, a duty on sugar at the equivalent in amount will be put on, so that the American product will [illegible] little or not at all from any probable change in the tariff. Even if the bounty were to be taken off without any [illegible] equivalent in duty, beet growing would be profitable, but with the duty and that support will be added with the producer may [illegible] it to go returns upon his investment.

To [illegible] there will be [illegible] in Denver, a [illegible] that of persons interested in the cultivation of sugar beets. Every effort [illegible] to secure a large and [illegible] gathering. We trust that this convention may be the means of stirring up a more general interest in the subject, and that it may also lead to practical results. Colorado's mineral wealth should not blind its citizens to the splendid possibilities and surer returns that lie in agriculture. Our agricultural products already exceed our mineral products in value by $20,000,000 a year. If the raising of beet sugar on a large scale be undertaken the agricultural side of the comparison will be increased by some millions.

This is a matter of vital interest to the whole state. The establishment of a few large beet sugar farms would give employment to scores of men, it would be good for the merchants who sell supplies, good for the railroads that would haul the beets and the sugar good for the people by adjusting the farm [illegible] good for the taxpayers by increasing taxable values, good for everybody in the State.

The other day a New York paper stating that in three years more the world's sugar consumption will be 7,500,000 tons raised the pertinent question "Who is going to supply that?" Let the answer come from Colorado.

HOW TO HELP SILVER

It is a noteworthy sign of the times when [illegible] a newspaper as the Salt Lake Tribune, which has been a devoted advocate of free coinage, and is still [illegible] out as it did on Sunday, with a proposition to place the coinage ratio of the two metals at 18 to 1 instead of 16 to 1. The Tribune is wise enough to see that there is no hope for the enactment of a free coinage law at the present ratio. It is wise enough, too, to consider seriously and without vituperation the arguments of some friends of silver that the best quick way to get it restored as a money metal is to come at once to a gold basis and so force the other commercial nations to a consideration of the question. On this point The Tribune says:

[illegible] are that the matter will go [illegible] any action at all before the fall of [illegible] of the best silver men in the [illegible] Nine to one the Sherman law [illegible] the same thought that [illegible] namely, that if [illegible] would be [illegible] that it [illegible]

A Trip to Chinatown

Hoyt's successful farce comedy, "A Trip to Chinatown" will appear at the opera house next Monday night. The play is one of the most laughable and attractive that Hoyt has produced When Hoyt & Thomas came into possession of the Madison Square theater in New York the play was put on the boards to fill the time until Hoyt could get a new play ready To the surprise of Hoyt himself, the comedy made a decided hit. It was added to and revamped by its author and had a successful run of 450 nights.

The scenic effects are of an elaborate description. Hoyt has expended more money in this direction upon the piece than he ever did upon any of his productions

The second act represents three rooms in the Cafe Riche in San Francisco.

Marshal Dane has received a letter from W. S. Seavey, chief of police of Omaha, in which he asks his co operation in the organization of a national association of chiefs of police. It is proposed that the marshals or chiefs of police in all cities of over 10,000 inhabitants meet in Chicago at some time during the present year and effect the organization. Mr Dane has written a letter setting forth his views pointing out the many advantages and possibilities of failure of the project. The greatest menace to the success of such an organization is the insecurity of the chiefs in their hold on office. There have been two attempts to form such organizations in this state and just as they got to doing good work many of the members suddenly found themselves without official capacity of any kind.

The second hunt of the year was held yesterday The meet was at the big gates east of the city and the run across the Martin & McGovney pasture. There was quite a large crowd in attendance, fully fifty people being present at the meet. A great many ladies attended in their carriages who did not participate in the chase. Among those who followed the hounds were a number of ladies. Three jack rabbits were started up but the morning was a little too cold and they were easily taken.

Clerk Howbert, of the district court, has had a railing and counter placed in his office to keep his numerous visitors from taking possession of his private papers and otherwise making themselves at home, as formerly

Wyoming News.

CHEYENNE, Wyo. Jan. 16.—There have been 789 talesmen examined for jurors in the cattlemen's cases now, and still the prospect of a jury is as far off as ever The state has discontinued making peremptory challenges. It is likely a jury will be secured, though it will require a long time yet.

The senatorial fight is in much the same condition as in the past, excepting that Nee is regarded out of the race

An unknown man tried to catch the Hill train on the way from Nee Castle to Cam bria a few days ago but fell through a bridge He never regained consciousness before death He was apparently a foreigner and about 5 years of age. There were no papers on his person by which he could be identified

Oklahoma's Deadlock.

GUTHRIE, Okla. Jan 16.—The deadlock is still on in the territorial legislature no business having been enacted in either house today The people's party passed a resolution looking toward a compromise by giving the Republicans speaker and dividing all other offices and committees equally between the other two parties and move the suspension of the rules and adoption of the measure to-morrow afternoon

A Laborer Killed

DENVER, Jan 16.—A workman on the Union Pacific work train was run over and killed at 3 o'clock this afternoon near the Mount Lumber Company's yard

He attempted to get on the train while it was in motion and was thrown between the cars the whole train passing over his body mangling it in a horrible manner Owing to the distance from the city it was impossible to learn his name

Colorado Supreme Court.

DENVER Jan 16.—The looked for decision in the Graves case was not handed down by the supreme court this morning The court was in session for a short time and after transacting some routine business, took a recess till 10 o'clock to-morrow If the Graves case shall be decided this week the decision will likely be reached to-morrow

A Cold Baptism

LANCASTER, Pa Jan 16.—Seven persons were baptized by immersion in little Conestoga creek, in Manheim township by Bishop Cotterden a Dunkard preacher who stood in the water up to his armpits for an hour The mercury was several degrees below zero over five hundred persons stood on the banks of the creek and witnessed the ceremony

An Unknown Dead
